IMPACTING THE FUTURE OF AGRICULTURE • SCHOLARSHIPS | EDUCATION | COMPETITION

To Our American Royal Family,

Today is National Agriculture Day – a nationwide celebration of agriculture and a reminder to all Americans that this industry keeps the country moving, especially in times of trial. Now more than ever in this historic time, it is important to educate the world about how food is grown, the role it plays in the U.S. economy and the various careers it involves.

We believe there is nothing more powerful, resilient and essential than our country's agriculture. Your continued support of the American Royal makes our mission to support this industry and its future leaders possible. For more information on Agriculture Day and how you can support local farmers and ranchers, follow this link <https://www.agday.org> — today and throughout the year. Additionally, the American Royal will be posting content on our social channels (@americanroyal) throughout the week, encouraging agriculture education efforts that can be enjoyed by all.

As we look ahead to the American Royal season, and with concerns surrounding the COVID-19 pandemic, we want you to know the health and safety of our guests, community members, volunteers and our employees is our top priority. To that end, we are working to make sure, when our event season begins later this year, our operations will run smoothly and safely for our attendees.

Sincere thanks and happy Agriculture Day,

Glen Alan Phillips

President/CEO, American Royal Association
